PURPOSE AND OUTCOME

Course Overview: Occupation is what we routinely do, incorporating activities that are life sustaining, purposeful and meaningful. The influence of occupation on health of persons with and without disabilities across cultures will be analyzed throughout the lifespan. Participation is an outcome concept involving engagement in activities like school, work and social life.

Relation to Program Outcomes: Occupation can be used to facilitate improved health outcomes in people with disease and chronic conditions. Individuals working in the healthcare environment will acquire an understanding and appreciation of the use of occupation to improve life task completion in populations with physical and cognitive limitations across cultures. Students will work collaboratively in small groups to determine how body impairment impacts engagement in activity and how context and personal factors interact with disability while investigating how participation in occupation affects personal growth and development.

Course Objectives and/or Goals:

1. Define terms such as occupation, occupational imbalance, occupational shifts, occupational deprivation, occupational justice, adaptation, role strain, activities of daily living (ADL), instrumental activities of daily living (IADL), lifestyle redesign, cultural competency, culturally and linguistically appropriate services (CLAS) and use correctly in discussion and written assignments.
2. Discuss specific occupation engagement by people with and without disabilities across the lifespan and across cultures. Express sensitivity and respect for cultural differences and openness when discussing occupation selection.
3. Identify ways in which culture determines occupation by interviewing a person with a different institutional, religious or cultural background. Use appropriate terminology depicting intercultural exchange while describing the environmental context.
4. Conduct an activity analysis on pre-determined occupations (driving and several weekly group occupations) and outline methods of modifying activity for an individual with a cognitive or mobility impairment. Include how culture may impact activities.

5. Describe how occupation may influence health across the lifespan and analyze the ways that cultural views, opinions and differences may impact participation and well-being.
6. Participate in a new occupation (e.g., art, sport, healthy habits, language acquisition, musical instrument, ADL, IADL, practicing/establishing a tradition from another country, etc.) and identify the reason for selection and method of learning. Discuss the effect of occupational engagement on personal growth and health.

Instructional Methods: Interactive lectures in-person (M, T, TH: 9:30-11:45 am)
 Discussion (online delivery on 6 Wednesdays)
 Readings with 5 weekly quizzes (via Canvas)
 Writing assignments (individual and group)
 Small work group projects (primarily in class)
 Self-assessment (goal setting and outcomes)

ACADEMIC REQUIREMENTS AND GRADING

Assignments: All turned-in assignments will employ proper grammar and spelling, appear aesthetically pleasing and professional, and address all questions posed to obtain maximum points. Please use APA style for citations.

Pie charts: Via 4 separate pie charts, identify categories of presumed or actual occupations -e.g., select categories such as ADLs, leisure, school, work, etc.-whatever large chunks of time you can categorize. These are the 4 different pie charts to create: 1) how you currently spend your day as a college student 2) how you spent time as an elementary school student 3) how a person over 65 might spend the day and 4) how someone with a severe disability (of any age and any disability and country other than US- you decide) from another country might spend the day (may need to do some research on this or base on someone you know). Justify the categories (they may change for each pie chart) and time allotted by sharing with your classmates during class. Turn in to instructor on 6/30@9:30 am.

Cultural interview: Select a person to interview who has a different cultural, religious, or institutional background from yours. Ask questions about their daily activities and how they may be different (or not) from you. In what occupations do they engage? What is important to them? How has their background/situation influenced their choice of/access to occupations? Does their culture impact participation? Address these questions in a 2-3 page paper along with introducing the person (how they are culturally different- reason selected) and summarizing the interview outcome and cultural differences. Turn in to Canvas or the instructor on 7/7.

Activity analysis: Using a provided activity analysis template, break down the component parts of a selected activity- add any categories that are appropriate to the template. Activity analysis will be covered in detail in various class sessions. Analyze how the activity could be modified to enable individuals with cognitive impairment and mobility impairment to participate in said activity. Include the impact that culture may have on activities. Turn in to the instructor the driving analysis on 7/21. Other in-class activities may be due at end of the specific class.

Class projects/Attendance: Various in-class labs will complement the topics of the week. Small groups of students will work on in-class activities and then will share information with the class. Most projects should be completed during the class session as we will discuss your findings. Attendance is essential and you will get points for attendance each week- 8 points each for weeks 1-5 and 10 points for week 6 (total of 50 points). Please contact the instructor if you foresee any conflicts or are involved in any university sanctioned events. Only one make-up assignment will be accepted for this short course. Check announcements in Canvas for specific information.

Quizzes: To stimulate class discussion and provide background, weekly quizzes comprising of 10 questions (1 point per question) will be given concerning major concepts covered in the weekly readings. Please use Canvas to access the quiz of the week. Quizzes are to be taken before Monday's class (will open on Thursday afternoons for the following week's quiz) and are due Sundays at 11:59 pm. The exception is the first week's quiz which is due 6/29@11:59pm and the second week's quiz due to 4th of July holiday (due 7/4@11:59 pm).

LockDown browser will be used for all the quizzes. Please take LockDown practice quiz before taking Quiz 1 (found in the Quiz section on Canvas). For more information about LockDown, please refer to the Welcome announcement in Canvas.

Discussions: Wednesdays will be online at your convenience ONLY and will consist of answering prompts regarding cultural aspects of occupation. Small groups have been randomly identified to facilitate communication regarding the specific prompt of the week. Students will respond to the prompt according to their frame of reference and will react to at least one other person's comments to receive full credit. To allow everyone time to reply to prompts, the Discussion page will open on Mondays and close at 9:00 pm on Wednesdays.

Occupation exploration: Choose a new occupation that is of particular interest to you (check with instructor before beginning) and plan on spending 3-5 days a week for 2-3 hours for 4-5 weeks exploring the activity (i.e., researching rules/guidelines/information; reading books, articles, online training; trying out the activity and experimenting; blogging or making diary entries about the process; documenting time spent in various parts of occupation). Set at least 2-3 measurable goals to track progress and discuss if you met goals or not and why. Write a 3 page paper (double-spaced, minimum of 3 pages) on what you learned about the new occupation and how this has affected your understanding of engagement in meaningful activity. Be sure to include any readings, class discussions that are applicable to your new occupation and cite accordingly (APA style). Be prepared to demonstrate and/or discuss your new occupation with your classmates during the week of 8/1/22. Discussion/demonstration to be ~15-30 minutes in length per person and should provide the class with the details of engaging in the new occupation (perhaps a simulation in class) and the goal outcomes. Presentations will take place during week 6 but the written portion (goals, weekly log, 3 page paper) is due August 1.

Exam Policy

Policy Related to Make up Exams or Other Work

Please note: Any requests for make-ups due to technical issues MUST be accompanied by the ticket number received from LSS when the problem was reported to them. The ticket number will document the time and date of the problem. You MUST e-mail me within 24 hours of the technical difficulty if you wish to request a make-up. Absence and tardiness may affect class project/participation as daily attendance is expected. Make-up assignments are due within one week of the original due date with all possible points awarded if directions followed. If make-up assignment is late, one point will be deducted per day late. Only one make-up assignment will typically be accepted during this 6- week course. Turn in this late work to your instructor. There are no exams in this intensive course.

Policy Related to Required Class Attendance

Class time will consist of lecture material via PowerPoint presentations, class interaction/discussion, and small group assignment. A majority of the assignments are designed to be completed during class. It is essential that you are present to contribute to the weekly group assignments to obtain maximum points. Please arrive punctually (at the start of the class period) and attend class on a regular basis. If you miss class due to illness or unfortunate serious events, please contact me in advance (phone is more desirable- 352-273-6022) to arrange an individual make-up assignment but you can also use e-mail to alert me. STUDENT EXPECTATIONS, ROLES, AND OPPORTUNITIES FOR INPUT

Expectations Regarding Course Behavior

This is an intensive course that will cover multiple topics weekly and include small group projects to facilitate a wide range of perspectives and occupation exploration. Students are expected to take the weekly quiz before Monday classes (except for week 1- quiz 1- which will be due 6/29@11:59 pm and quiz 2 which is due a day later than usual on 7/4@11:59 pm) as this will promote class discussion. Smart phones, tablets, laptops and other electronic devices are to be utilized to assist in accessing information during small work group projects.

Interactive lectures will require student attention and participation. Remember to respect the opinions of others and treat classmates the way that you would like to be treated. Openness and tolerance of differences is expected and will be maintained so that growth can occur. Entering the health profession requires not only skill competence but the utilization of active listening skills, patience, a pleasant and professional demeanor while giving utmost respect to others who are experiencing health problems/challenges. If these behaviors are not displayed in class and online, I will speak individually to those who are having challenges and we will devise an action plan for improvement.

Communication Guidelines

Students are encouraged to attend official office hours and to contact the instructor when there are questions or concerns. If those hours are not suitable, feel free to contact me during regular business hours. Please use e-mail (UF or Canvas) or phone. I will contact you promptly within 8am-5pm on weekdays.

Academic Integrity

Students are expected to act in accordance with the University of Florida policy on academic integrity. As a student at the University of Florida, you have committed yourself to uphold the Honor Code, which includes the following pledge:

“We, the members of the University of Florida community, pledge to hold ourselves and our peers to the highest standards of honesty and integrity.”

You are expected to exhibit behavior consistent with this commitment to the UF academic community, and on all work submitted for credit at the University of Florida, the following pledge is either required or implied:

“On my honor, I have neither given nor received unauthorized aid in doing this assignment.”

It is your individual responsibility to know and comply with all university policies and procedures regarding academic integrity and the Student Honor Code. Violations of the Honor Code at the University of Florida will not be tolerated. Violations will be reported to the Dean of Students Office for consideration of disciplinary action. For additional information regarding Academic Integrity, please see Student Conduct and Honor Code or the Graduate Student Website for additional details:

<https://www.dso.ufl.edu/scsr/process/student-conduct-honor-code/>
<http://gradschool.ufl.edu/students/introduction.html>

Please remember cheating, lying, misrepresentation, or plagiarism in any form is unacceptable and inexcusable behavior.

Recording Within the Course:

Students are allowed to record video or audio of class lectures. However, the purposes for which these recordings may be used are strictly controlled. The only allowable purposes are (1) for personal educational use, (2) in connection with a complaint to the university, or (3) as evidence in, or in preparation for, a criminal or civil proceeding. All other purposes are prohibited. Specifically, students may not publish recorded lectures without the written consent of the instructor.

A “class lecture” is an educational presentation intended to inform or teach enrolled students about a particular subject, including any instructor-led discussions that form part of the presentation, and delivered by any instructor hired or appointed by the University, or by a guest instructor, as part of a University of Florida course. A class lecture does not include lab sessions, student presentations, clinical presentations such as patient history, academic exercises involving solely student participation, assessments (quizzes, tests, exams), field trips, private conversations between students in the class or between a student and the faculty or lecturer during a class session.

Publication without permission of the instructor is prohibited. To “publish” means to share, transmit, circulate, distribute, or provide access to a recording, regardless of format or medium, to another person (or persons), including but not limited to another student within the same class section. Additionally, a recording, or transcript of a recording, is considered published if it is posted on or uploaded to, in whole or in part, any media platform, including but not limited to social media, book, magazine, newspaper, leaflet, or third party note/tutoring services. A student who publishes a recording without written consent may be subject to a civil cause of action instituted by a person injured by the publication and/or discipline under UF Regulation 4.040 Student Honor Code and Student Conduct Code.

Policy Related to Guests Attending Class:

Only registered students are permitted to attend class. However, we recognize that students who are caretakers may face occasional unexpected challenges creating attendance barriers. Therefore, by exception, a department chair or his or her designee (e.g., instructors) may grant a student permission to bring a guest(s) for a total of two class sessions per semester. This is two sessions total across all courses. No further extensions will be granted. Please note that guests are not permitted to attend either cadaver or wet labs. Students are responsible for course material regardless of attendance. For additional information, please review the Classroom Guests of Students policy in its entirety. Link to full policy:

Inclusive Learning Environment

Public health and health professions are based on the belief in human dignity and on respect for the individual. As we share our personal beliefs inside or outside of the classroom, it is always with the understanding that we value and respect diversity of background, experience, and opinion, where every individual feels valued. We believe in, and promote, openness and tolerance of differences in ethnicity and culture, and we respect differing personal, spiritual, religious and political values. We further believe that celebrating such diversity enriches the quality of the educational experiences we provide our students and enhances our own personal and professional relationships. We embrace The University of Florida's Non-Discrimination Policy, which reads, "The University shall actively promote equal opportunity policies and practices conforming to laws against discrimination. The University is committed to non-discrimination with respect to race, creed, color, religion, age, disability, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity and expression, marital status, national origin, political opinions or affiliations, genetic information and veteran status as protected under the Vietnam Era Veterans' Readjustment Assistance Act." If you have questions or concerns about your rights and responsibilities for inclusive learning environment, please see your instructor or refer to the Office of Multicultural & Diversity Affairs website: www.multicultural.ufl.edu

Instructor note: As this is a course covering cultures of the world, I am committed to sharing information on different perspectives and lifestyles. I welcome and encourage dialogue and will ensure that all feel comfortable in participating. The small class size will facilitate open conversation and hopefully, lively discussion on how culture can impact our occupations across the lifespan.
